

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Method and system are provided for optimization and transmission of digital signals through twisted pairs of telephone cables. Crosstalk reduction is obtained due to cancellation of 5 electromagnetic fields generated by correlated twisted pairs by establishing mutual pair-to-pair coherence at each tone of a transmission spectrum and introducing a requested phase shift between the tones propagating in different pairs.